

Abstract of the Disclosure

5 Based on the concept of minimization, a method of static compaction has been developed for a digital circuit. The compaction method is a combination of two main procedures: one for the selection of essential test stimuli and the other for the elimination of redundant test stimuli, and effective in minimizing any set of test stimuli without modifying any of the test stimuli.

00904788735560